New Pay Bill Ready For House Debate; Grants Top Officers $22,500, Boosts Jr. Officer And Enlisted Men Rates, Modifies Longevity, Approves 6 Percent For Retired

Turn to back page for complete set of tables showing rates of pay provided in subcommittee's new bill and comparisons with existing pay.

MILITARY pay increases ranging as high as $653.20 per month for senior officers and $124.60 per month for senior non-commissioned officers have been approved by the Kilday House Armed Services Subcommittee.

The full Committee was due to act on the plan and rush the measure to the House floor as THE JOURNAL went to press. Chances are good that House debate will open on 24 March before the Congress goes home for the Easter Recess.

The Kilday group completed the pay study on 18 March and unanimously reported a revamped military compensation system which retains the basic Cordiner recommendations but makes a number of significant changes in the Cordiner and Pentagon proposals. These changes:

• Erase proposed active-duty supplements and add all increases to basic pay.

• Make the increases effective at once instead of over a four-year period.

• Grant a six per cent cost-of-living increase to retired.

• Readjust pay scales for enlisted men and junior officers.

• Retain special pay for doctors.

• Retain present hazardous duty pay formula.

• Provide a statutory basis for proficiency pay.

• Provide a special pay scale for junior officers who have at least four years' enlisted service.

Rep. Kilday
Chairman

• Retain but modify the time-honored longevity system.

• Increase the pay of two-, three- and four-star officers above Pentagon recommendations.

• Decrease the raises recommended for brigadier generals, colonels and lieutenant colonels, but provide "substantial" increases for officers in these ranks.

• Authorize three- and four-star officers on the retired list to recompute their retired pay on the basis of the new active-duty pay rates, provided they held their retired rank while on active duty.

• Eliminate the six per cent temporary cost-of-living increase for those on active duty and provide "minimal pay increases" for those who have been frozen in grade for long periods.

Chairman Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex) said the committee bill "is designed to carry out not only the principles of the Department of Defense proposals but also the objectives of the Cordiner Committee, with greater equity among the respective services and between officers and enlisted men."

In some respects, he said, "it is better than the Cordiner plan."

"While retaining the time-honored principle of longevity," he said, "the committee modified it so as to preserve its benefits but eliminate its weaknesses." He said this is accomplished "by stopping longevity increases at the normal promotion points for both officers and enlisted personnel."

As a result, a second lieutenant who

Wherry Improvement Program Promises Better Quarters For 34,000 Families

The Services are geared to launch a $70 million improvement program for Wherry housing which has been converted to public quarters use.

About 34,000 Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps families will be affected. As previously reported (THE JOURNAL, 15 March) the House Armed Services Committee has given the Pentagon authority to spend up to $3,000 each on Wherry units which are in need of structural changes to make them more habitable.

In addition, the Services are planning to make numerous other repairs and non-structural improvements in the family housing.

The Army will spend about $23 million on 11,591 units at 17 bases.

The Air Force will spend about $32 million on 15,002 units at 25 bases.

The Navy will spend about $15 million on 7,318 units at eight Navy and three Marine Corps bases.

Here is a breakdown of the stations and Wherry units involved in the repair and improvement program:

In the Army, 1,156 units at three bases will receive only repairs and improvements. They include 120 units at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., 235 units at White Sands Proving Ground, N. M., and 801 units at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

In addition, the Army will make repairs, improvements and construct storage areas for 5,140 units at six bases: Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. (500 units); Ft. Dix, N. J. (1,000 units); Ft. Ord, Calif. (1,000 units); Ft. Knox, Ky. (1,700 units); Ft. Benning, Ga. (800 units), and Ft. McClellan, Ala. (140 units).

At six Army bases, repairs and improvements will be made to 4500 units, and almost 300 of these units will be combined to provide three- and four-bedroom units. At Ft. Bragg, N. C., 144 units will be combined to provide larger quarters, and about is not promoted after four years' total service will receive no further increase in pay until he is promoted to first lieutenant. A first lieutenant will receive no further increase in pay after six years' total service unless he is promoted to the next grade. Pay raise will be shut off for captains after 12 years' service, for majors after 18 years' service, for lieutenant colonels after 22 years' service, for colonels after 26 years' service, for brigadier generals after 18 years' service, for major generals after 22 years' service, and for three- and four-star officers after 26 years' service.

New Pay Bill Ready For House Debate; Provides 6 Per Cent Boost For Retired

In the enlisted ranks, privates will not receive pay increases after two years' service unless promoted to the next higher grade. Pay increases will be shut off for privates first class after four years' service, for corporals after 10 years' service, for sergeants after 20 years' service and for all higher enlisted grades after 22 years' service.

Mr. Kilday noted that "under this system, the horizontal pay increases (due to overlong service without promotion) deplored by the Cordiner group will no longer obtain after the individual officer or enlisted man has passed the promotion point."

Advantages Of System

He said this system has the advantage of minimizing the financial aspects of the differing promotion systems which the Services employ, and it will provide "minimal pay increases for those of long service who have, through no fault of their own, been unfortunate enough to be assigned to a field or service where promotional opportunities are frozen."

In recommending a six per cent pay increase for retired personnel, the committee pointed out that it took "the middle ground." The Cordiner Committee had recommended that retired personnel be granted pay increases based on the new active duty pay raise. The Pentagon did not recommend an increase for those on the retired rolls.

The Kilday group said the Cordiner proposal for retired personnel would have cost $65 million. The committee plan will cost an estimated $35 million.

In reporting the new pay plan to the full Armed Services Committee, the Kilday group noted that the subcommittee recommendations carry out three of the most important recommendations of the Cordiner Committee by providing authority for proficiency pay, by improving the career ladder and creating two new officer and two new enlisted pay grades, and by eliminating the horizontal pay progression possible under the current pay law.

In addition, the committee said that changes which it made will provide more equitable pay scales for enlisted men and junior officers of the future, and will prevent thousands of Servicemen from going on "saved pay."

Although a clause in the committee plan provides that no one will lose pay as a result of the new pay scales, changes made by the committee reduce the number thus affected. Under the Pentagon plan, about 38.6 per cent of all military personnel (about 979,000) would have ended up in the "saved pay" category. Under the Kilday bill, only one per cent will go on "saved pay."

Aid Junior Officers

By eliminating the six per cent cost-of-living increase for those who would not otherwise have benefited under the Pentagon plan, the committee said it will prevent eventual loss of pay to future enlisted men amounting to $167 million by 1962, and will assure junior officers—second lieutenants through major—of reasonable increases more in line with those provided for lieutenant colonels and colonels.

The committee eliminated proposed active-duty supplemental pay for officers in pay grades O-5 through O-8, but boosted the amount of base pay proposed by the Pentagon for these grades. In some cases, although the increase over present pay is substantial, the change also means a substantial reduction in the amounts proposed by the Pentagon. However, under the new plan, the full increase will be counted in computing retired pay, whereas under the Pentagon plan, the active-duty supplement would not have counted for that purpose.

Also, by making the increases effective on the first day of the month following the month in which the new pay scales are enacted, the committee eliminated a Pentagon plan to string the increases out little by little over a period of four years.

This means that some officers for whom the Pentagon-proposed rates have been reduced will actually receive fatter pay checks during the first year than they would have under the bigger Pentagon raises.

Special Pay Scale

The committee also worked up a new special pay scale for officers in the lower pay grades (O-1, O-2 and O-3) who have had at least four years' service as enlisted men. This did away with the need for a Pentagon proposal which would have placed limited duty officers under warrant officer scales for pay purposes.

Without special pay scales for junior officers who have served as enlisted men, the committee said "the enlisted man, E-5 through E-9, could not in the future become an officer without suffering a loss of pay too great to be endurable."

In rejecting the complicated phase-in program proposed by the Pentagon, the committee said it did so because it does not believe an officer should have to wait 37 months to receive the pay which he is told his job is worth. Under the Pentagon proposal, no officer would have received his full increase immediately, but would have had it phased in over a period of four years. The final increment would have been added in the 37th month. In the meantime, if retired, the officer's retired pay would be based on the amount he was receiving on the date of his retirement.

The committee made no reference to special incentive pay for physicians, dentists and veterinarians, but the section of the Defense Department proposal which would have reduced this pay was eliminated from the committee bill. As previously reported (THE JOURNAL, 8 March), the American Medical Association had opposed the Pentagon plan, and committee members indicated that they were reluctant to tamper with the special doctors' pay since it had achieved such excellent results. By eliminating the section from the bill, the committee retained the present special incentive pay for physicians intact.

Similarly, the section changing hazardous duty pay to bring it in line with the step-in grade system, also was eliminated from the pay bill. This means that hazardous duty pay will continue to be paid on the same longevity formula now in use.

However, new hazardous duty pay rates were added for the new officer and enlisted pay grades. Three- and four-star officers receiving hazardous duty pay will be paid $165 per month, the same rate which now applies to major generals, lieutenant generals and full generals with more than three years' service. Enlisted men promoted to pay grades E-8 and E-9 and eligible for hazardous duty pay will receive $105 per month, regardless of years of service. This is the same rate which now applies to master sergeants and chief petty officers with over 12 years' service.

Sea and foreign service pay in the amount of $22.50 per month also was added for the two new enlisted pay grades.

In authorizing the two new enlisted grades, the committee provided that no enlisted member of the Armed Services shall be promoted to E-8 or E-9 until he has completed at least eight or 10 cumulative years of enlisted service creditable in the computation of his basic pay, respectively.

Also, the committee bill provides that the average daily number of active duty enlisted members in any Service who can serve in pay grades E-8 and E-9 "may not be more than two per cent and one per cent, respectively," of the number enlisted members of that Service on active duty on 1 January of each year. Some exceptions are made to this rule, however, in the case of men assigned to the two new pay grades under the proficiency pay section of the bill.

With certain exceptions, officers and enlisted personnel receiving retired pay, retirement pay, retainer pay or equivalent pay on the day before the effective date of the new pay act "shall be entitled to an increase of six per cent of that pay to which they were entitled on that date."

Navy and Marine Corps officers who upon retirement are advanced to the next higher grade because of combat decorations and who are later recalled to active duty in the higher grade will not be entitled to retired pay computed on the basis of the higher grade unless they serve on active duty for a period of at least 180 consecutive days.

Three- and four-star officers on the retired list on the date of the new pay law, if they held three- or four-star rank on active duty, will be entitled to have the retired pay recomputed on the basis of the new basic pay rate for the grade which they hold on the retired list. This will mean an increase in retired pay of about $240 per month for four-star officers and about $165 for three-star officers who had at least 30 years' service at the time of their retirement. Both now receive $322.92 per month, the same retired pay which goes to a major general.

The savings clause in the bill provides that "No person, active or retired, in any of the uniformed services shall suffer by reason of this Act any reduction in basic or retired pay to which he was entitled upon the day before the effective date of this Act."

New Plan Proposes Alternative Methods For Determining Proficiency Payment

The new Kilday pay bill establishes two alternative systems of paying proficiency pay.

The move, the committee said, is designed to give the individual Services "an extra management tool for the retention of highly skilled personnel."

Originally, the Pentagon had planned to put proficiency pay raises into effect administratively. No new authority was asked in the Defense Department pay bill for this purpose.

However, the Kilday committee wrote in a section on proficiency pay to give it "a statutory basis."

Under the Kilday bill, an enlisted member who is entitled to basic pay and who is designated as possessing special proficiency in a military skill in his particular Service may be advanced to any enlisted pay grade that is higher than the pay grade he holds at the time he is designated and receive the pay, allowances, and special or incentive pay of the higher pay grade in accordance with his cumulative years of service for pay purposes.

Establish "P" Ratings

Or, under the alternative method, he may, in addition to any pay, allowances, special or incentive pay to which he is entitled under the new pay act, be paid proficiency pay at a monthly rate not to exceed the maximum rate prescribed in the following table for the proficiency rating to which he is assigned:

| Proficiency Rating | Maximum Monthly Rate |
|--------------------|----------------------|
| P-1 | $ 50 |
| P-3 | $150 |

Under the first alternative, enlisted members who have less than eight cumulative years of enlisted service for basic pay purposes and who are advanced to pay grade E-8, and those with less than 10 cumulative years of enlisted service for basic pay purposes who are advanced to pay grade E-9, are "entitled to the minimum amount of basic pay, allowances, and special or incentive pay prescribed for that pay grade until such time as his cumulative years of service for pay purposes entitles him to a higher rate of such pay."

For example: An E-6 with over six years' service now receives $214.50 in basic pay. Under the Kilday plan, his base pay goes up to $240. If he should be selected for a proficiency pay bonus under the first alternative, and advanced to pay grade E-8, he would receive $300 per month in base pay (the minimum amount in that pay grade).

Under the second alternative, if a signed a proficiency rating of P-3, the same man could receive $370 per month in base pay.

The Kilday bill provides that the Secretary of each Service "shall determine which of the two systems he wishes to put into effect, but 'he may elect only one of these methods of paying proficiency pay for each uniformed service under his jurisdiction.'"

This means that the Secretary of the Navy could elect one system for the Navy and the other for the Marine Corps if such a step appears desirable.

E-9 Could Get $610

If the Secretary elects to have proficiency pay paid under the first system (promotion to higher pay grade), enlisted members who receive normal promotion to pay grades E-8 and E-9 may be paid proficiency pay under the second alternative. This means that an E-9 with 22 years' service could receive $610 per month, plus allowances.

If the Secretary elects the second system (proficiency ratings P-1, P-2 and P-3), he must prescribe, within the maximum monthly rates prescribed for the three grades, the amount of proficiency pay to be paid for each proficiency rating. This means he could pay less than the maximum amount recommended in the pay bill.

Under the second alternative also, the Secretary must "designate, from time to time, those skills within each uniformed service under his jurisdiction in which proficiency pay is authorized." He must also "prescribe the criteria under which members of that uniformed service are eligible for a proficiency rating in each such skill." And, "He may, whenever he deems it necessary, increase, decrease or abolish proficiency pay for any such skill."

In computing retired or retainer pay the proficiency pay to which a member is entitled on the day before he becomes entitled to retired or retainer pay is considered a part of his basic pay.

At Ft. Monmouth, N. J., 44 units will be made larger and 522 others will be improved and repaired. At Ft. Special authority also was obtained by the Army to spend an average of $3,878 on 568 units at Ft. Hood, Tex. Thirty-three units will be made larger.

The Air Force program includes structural improvements (the addition of bedrooms, storage facilities and enlarged kitchens), as well as general repairs, deficiency corrections and non-structural improvements to 15,002 Wherry units at these bases: Barksdale (692 units), Bergstrom (500), Biggs (800), Chantute (800), Eglin (750), Ellsworth (401), Fairchild (1,000), Hamilton (500), Holloman (600), Keesler (858), Lockbourne (500), Malmstrom (592), McClellan (105), Mountain Home (500), Offutt (611), Patrick (680), Presque Isle (192), Ramey (995), Robins (500), Stewart (284), Travis (980) and Tyndall (450).

The Navy plans to spend about $14.7 million on 7,318 Marine Corps and Navy units at 11 bases. They include 571 units at El Toro NAS, Calif.; 326 units at Port Hueneme NABD, Calif.; 2,108 units at Camp Lejeune, N. C.; 1,421 units at Cherry Point MCAS, N. C.; 85 units at Parris Island MCRD, S. Vanguard System Tests New Missile Developments, May Set Future Pattern

The Vanguard Missile which carried the nation's second earth satellite into orbit on 17 March has already made a significant contribution to the present and future development of U. S. military hardware.

Experimenting with new guidance and control systems, the missile signals a sharp departure from similar multi-stage vehicles now in operation, and may well set a pattern for future missile developments.

Unlike the Explorer I which bore aloft the country's first artificial moon, the Vanguard missile system is a completely self contained operation. Once fired from its launching site, it guides itself into orbit without further assist from the ground.

Its first stage, an adaptation of the Martin Company's Viking missile, is said to be the first liquid-propelled rocket designed without stabilizing fins or vanes. To compensate for changes in direction as well as pitch and yaw, the Vanguard missile shifts the direction of its rocket thrusts. Exhaust gases pumped through jets on the missile's body are used to counteract roll.

Guidance and control systems for this Navy missile are located wholly within its second stage. Deviations from the planned flight pattern are detected by a set of three gyroscopes which relay corrective information to the missile's autopilot.

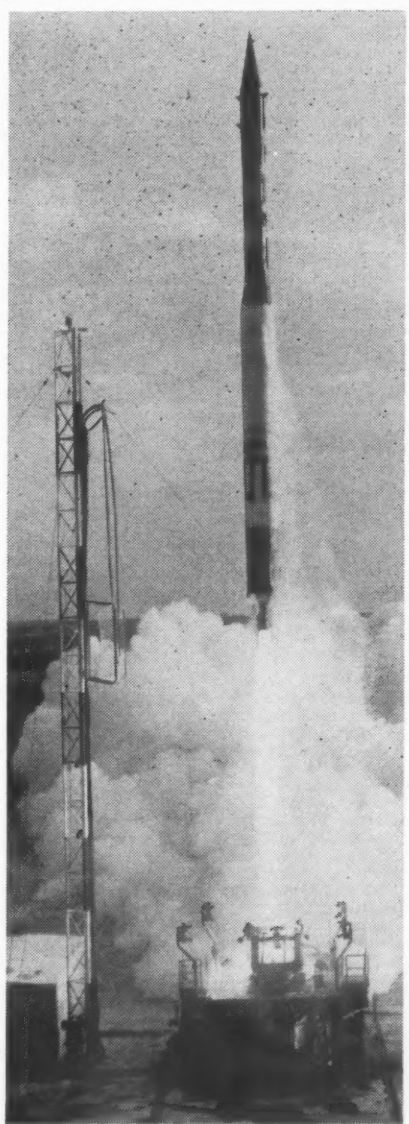

A programmer in the second stage establishes the sequence of the various controls and engine operations and determines when to separate the three stages of the missile in flight. Once the second stage of the missile has been jettisoned, however, no further control can be exercised over its direction.

Observers noted that this system differs from that used in the Army's Explorer, many of whose operations are controlled from the ground.

Prime contractor for the Vanguard missile system is The Martin Company of Baltimore, Md., which also manufactures the Army Missile Master and the Air Force B-57 Canberra night intruder bomber. Work on the missile was done at the company's plants near Baltimore and Orlando, Fla.

Aiding The Martin Company in the Vanguard project were a number of civilian and military organizations, each contributing components in its field of specialization.

General Electric Company, Aerojet General Corporation of Azusa, Calif., and the Grand Central Rocket Company of Redlands, Calif., built the first, second and third stages of the rocket, respectively. Army Gives Most Tuition Aid Benefits, Reciprocity Lacking Among Services

Army officers have a great advantage over those in the Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force when they wish to take part-time government-subsidized college courses.

Army officers are not restricted by course limitations related to their military specialty, as is the situation with the other services. In many cases, they can also pursue their courses during normal duty hours.

Despite the fact that all the Services have established their tuition aid programs under the same Congressional authorization, the benefits available to officers of one service vary considerably from those given to the other military departments.

Requirements uniform among all the Services include the statutory one that officers accepting tuition aid serve two years after completion of the course, and Service-imposed regulations which require officers to refund the Government payment if they drop out of a course without good reason. All the services also limit the amount of aid to a maximum of 75 per cent of tuition.

THE ARMY, like its sister Services, abides by these limitations. But it does little else to restrict attendance or choice of courses. It even allows local commanders to encourage part-time attendance at civilian colleges during normal duty hours.

NAVY OFFICIALS say that while it is within the power of commanders to allow part-time attendance at civilian colleges during normal duty hours, it is not generally Navy policy to encourage it.

Most severe restrictions imposed by the Navy, however, limit the type of course which an officer can take under the tuition aid plan. While allowing officers to take any course they wish toward most bachelors' degrees, Naval regulations restrict officers who possess their first college degree to four fields: mathematics, physical sciences, international relations and management. Officer taking graduate courses outside these fields cannot receive tuition aid.

MARINE CORPS HEADQUARTERS follows the Army, rather than the Navy, regulations on the matter, and make no course or program restrictions on the tuition aid. School officials emphasize, however, that it is not Marine Corps policy to allow officers to take part-time college courses during normal duty hours.

THE AIR FORCE follows general Navy policy and restricts the courses for which it will grant tuition aid to those needed for a college degree or related to an officer's duty assignment.

Little reciprocity is manifested among the Services in the matter of granting tuition aid by one Service to members of another who are assigned to it. The Marine Corps and the Air Force will grant tuition aid to members of any other Service assigned to them for duty. The Navy will give such aid only to its own personnel. Army regulations do not cover the subject, but officials say such reciprocal tuition aid might be worked out on an installation level.

Resulting from this lack of reciprocity is the situation where the Marine Corps will subsidize the tuition of Navy personnel assigned to it, while the Navy refuses similar aid to Marines.

Survivor Benefits Go Up As Much As $90 Per Month Under New Kilday Pay Proposal

Survivor benefits under the newly proposed Kilday pay plan will be increased as much as $90 per month for widows of four-star officers, who will receive a total of $338 per month.

The widows of other flag and general officers who had completed as much as 30 years' service prior to their deaths would receive increases ranging from $18 to $65 per month. The widows of brigadier generals would have their survivors checks increased from $229 to $247; major generals, from $242 to $277, and lieutenant generals from $242 to $307.

NOTE: Those who now receive survivor benefits can determine the increase they would receive under the Kilday plan by multiplying the proposed base pay of their husband's rank (shown in chart on back page of this issue) by 12 and adding $112. Survivor payments are based on the most up-to-date active duty pay rates, regardless of the prevailing rate at the time of the member's death.

The widow of a colonel with 26 years' service would receive $232 instead of the present $206.

The widow of the lieutenant colonel with 22 years' service would receive $228 instead of the present $189.

The widow of a major with 18 years' service would receive $189 instead of the present $180.

The widow of a captain with 14 years' service would receive $175 instead of $169.

The widow of a first lieutenant with six years' service would receive $159 instead of $155.

The widow of a second lieutenant with three years' service would receive $150 instead of the present $148.

Missile Test Center Faces '58 Expansion

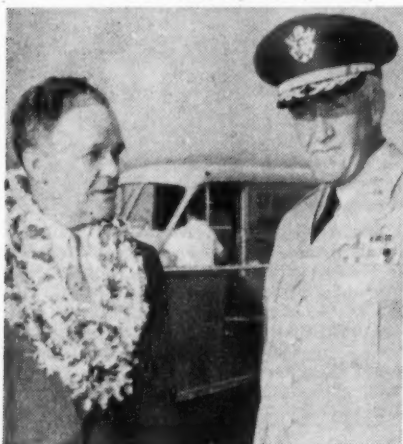

CAPE CANAVERAL, FLA.

A STEPPED-UP weapons test program will see the military and civilian population of the Air Force Missile Test Center increase from about 14,900 to 18,000 this year.

Maj. Gen. Donald D. Yates made this known to a group of newsmen visiting Cape Canaveral and the headquarters for the Test Center at nearby Patrick AFB.

Helping the housing situation is the start of construction on 999 Capehart units to supplement the 680 sets of quarters presently available for about 1800 officers and airmen.

Details of the expanded program at the world's largest missile test center will be told in the next week's issue of "The Journal" in an on the spot report from Cape Canaveral and Patrick.

M/G Besson Takes Over As TC Chief

Maj. Gen. Frank S. Besson, jr., reporting from Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe where he was Assistant Chief of Staff for Logistics, has taken office as U. S. Army Chief of Transportation.

He moves into the post vacated by Maj. Gen. Paul F. Yount who ended his career on 31 January.

General Besson, a 1932 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, served as Chief of the Development Branch, Office of the Engineer Chief, during the early part of WWII. Later, he became Assistant Director and General Manager of the Third Military Railway Service in the Persian Gulf Command and in May, 1944, was named Director of the Service.

In June 1945, the General was named Chief of the Rail Division for Army Forces in the Western Pacific.

Prior to his SHAPE assignment, the General served as Commander, Transportation Center, Ft. Eustis, Va., and as Commandant of the Transportation School there.

Gen. Collins Confirmed

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Maj. Gen. James F. Collins, to have the rank of Lieutenant General while serving as Army Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

General Collins has been Assistant Deputy since March 1957. He succeeds Lt. Gen. Donald P. Booth who becomes Higher Commissioner of the Ryukyus.

THE Army this week released the sixth Augmentation List containing the names of 461 Reserve officers chosen for Regular rank.

The appointments were made in the following permanent ranks: lieutenant colonel, 8; major, 58; captain, 212; first lieutenant, 135; and second lieutenant, 48.

By Branches the appointments totaled: AGC, 46; Armor, 22; Artillery, 107; Chaplains, 7; CmlC, 13; CE, 16; FC, 14; Infantry, 77; JAGC, 5; MPC, 28; MSC, 13; ORDC, 24; QMC, 19; SigC, 47; TC, 21 and WAC, 2.

In the following list, the appointed rank is shown. Where no rank is listed, the appointment was made in permanent rank of Captain. An asterisk before an officer's name indicates he holds temporary status one grade above his permanent rank; a double asterisk indicates that the temporary rank is two above the permanent rank.

The only officer in the group appointed to a higher regular grade than the temporary one in which he was serving is Capt. John T. Oglesby. His temporary rank was first lieutenant.

A CONCEPT OF SCIENCE

Five years ago, The Martin Company conceived a unique undertaking in the field of pure science which grew out of a belief that our own and our country's resources in creative scientific research must be greatly enlarged and cultivated.

We believed that the country—and the Company—that concentrates on short-range material achievements, without a deep concern for the creative source of tomorrow's even greater achievements, will have no tomorrow.

It is now three years since that belief motivated management's action with the foundation of a program in pure research. Known as the Research Institute of Advanced Study, RIAS is now a substantial organization staffed by scientists who are working in many fields, including theoretical physics, biochemistry, metallurgy and mathematics, without short-range applied research requirements.

Today, the increasing appeals to industry and the nation for accelerated activities in basic research give the RIAS story a special significance. For creative research in pure science is the true life source of our technological security—the "seed bed" from which our national strength shall continue to grow.

Cdr. Shilling Is First To Win Peacetime LofM

Cdr. Katherine E. Shilling has earned the distinction of being the first WAVE to win the Legion of Merit for peacetime service.

She received the decoration from Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates, Jr., at a ceremony held in his office on 18 March. Commander Shilling was cited for "participating in one of the most comprehensive legislative projects ever undertaken by the Defense Department."

At the time, she was serving in the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy.

In part, the citation reads:

Commander Shilling performed extensive research of existing Federal statutes affecting the Navy and carried out the difficult and complicated task of drafting the Navy's portion of the codification of Title 10 of the United States Code. Hundreds of heterogeneous laws were replaced with one integrated enactment, which will result in incalculable benefits to the Department of Defense and the Congress.

The Commander was graduated from the George Washington Law School with distinction in 1936. A member of the District of Columbia Bar, she was admitted to the Bar of the U. S. Supreme Court in 1953.

RAdm. Paul D. Stroop has succeeded RAdm. Frederic S. Withington as Chief of the Bureau of Ordnance.

He was sworn in by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates, Jr., on 14 March. The Admiral reported to his new post from duty as Commander, U. S. Taiwan Patrol Force, and Commander Fleet Air Wing One.

Admiral Withington becomes Commander, Naval Forces, Japan, in April.

Marine Corps Offers 7,000 Early Releases

As an economy measure, Marine Corps Headquarters is offering early discharges to approximately 7,000 enlisted Leathernecks scheduled for release or discharge during April, May and June.

Enlisted men slated for "out" during the three-month period will be separated as soon after 1 April as possible. They must, however, request early release or discharge by making application to their commanding officers.

If the entire 7,000 availed themselves of the program, Marine Corps end-strength at the end of Fiscal Year 1958 would stand somewhere between 182 and 183 thousand officers and men.

Souvenir Coins Made From Dewey's Olympia

Souvenir coins, fashioned from the melted-down propeller of Admiral Dewey's Flagship at the Battle of Manila Bay, the Olympia, have been made available to the public by the Cruiser Olympia Association, Philadelphia 3, Pa.

The coins will be distributed to all persons who contribute one dollar or more to help pay for the vessel's repair and installation as a national shrine in Philadelphia. When enshrined, part of the vessel will be used to house a Marine museum.

Repairs, estimated to cost $158,000, are now under way at the Keystone Drydock and Ship Repair Company. After completion of repairs, the ship will be towed to a site on the Delaware River between Market and Chestnut Streets where she will be landlocked and placed on public exhibition.

AN ADDED ALLY—NATO's Fourth Allied Tactical Air Force, composed until now of U. S., French and Canadian Air components, gained its fourth ally—the German Air Force—when Maj. Gen. Joachim Huth, right, head of the GAF Southern Region, officially joined Fourth ATAF Commanders for the first time in conference at the Trier, Germany, Headquarters of NATO's Central European international air force. The Commanders, above, left to right, are, Maj. Gen. Edward J. Timberlake, USAF, 4th ATAF Commander; Air Vice Marshal H. B. Godwin, RCAF, 1 Air Division Air Officer Commanding; Maj. Gen. Gabriel P. Disosway, USAF, Commanding USAF Advon; Maj. Gen. Paul M. Stehlin, USAF, 1st French Air Force Commander; Maj. Gen. Bernard G. Challe, USAF, 4th ATAF Deputy Commander, and General Huth, GAF.

SAC Gets McConnell, Shift Commanders

McConnell AFB, Kans., which has been the center for B-47 and special weapons training, will be shifted 1 July from the Air Training Command to the Strategic Air Command.

Coincidentally, it was reported that Brig. Gen. Kenneth O. Sanborn, who has commanded SAC's Plattsburgh AFB, N. Y., since February 1956, will take command of McConnell between 7-15 April.

Present Commander at McConnell is Brig. Gen. L. C. Coddington.

TAC's KC-97 combat crew training school at Randolph AFB, Tex., will be shifted to SAC in July.

AF Academy Builders' Safety Plans Praised

The Colorado Industrial Commission has praised the safety program of the U. S. Air Force Academy construction project.

Col. Albert E. Stoltz, USAF, director of the Air Force Academy Construction Agency, simultaneously commended Miller Prose, safety engineer of the Agency, for carrying out a highly successful safety program.

The Academy construction is being done under about 50 current prime contracts and more than 400 subcontracts on the site north of Colorado Springs. Work is more than half completed.

Col. Garrison Dental Chief

Col. Grayson G. Garrison, formerly Dental Surgeon for both the 7100th USAF Hospital and the 7100th Support Wing at Wiesbaden, Germany, has become Director of Dental Services for Western Air Defense Force at Hamilton AFB, Calif.

USAF AIDS SCHOOLS

The Air Force donated surplus property that cost $33,000,000 to educational activities during the first half of Fiscal Year 1958. The announcement was made by Maj. Gen. Frederick J. Dau, Air Materiel Command's Director of Supply.

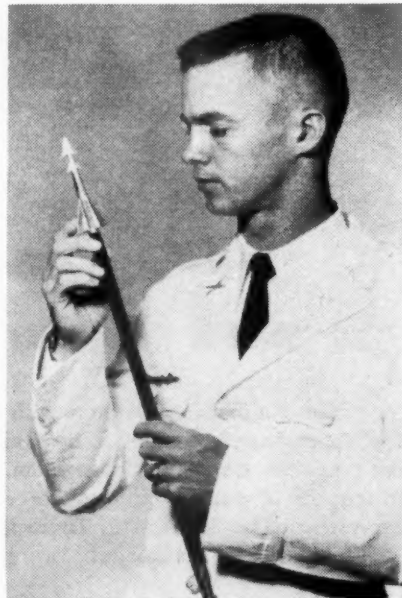

Obsolete property that was donated ranged from training aids to laboratory equipment still usable by schools for instruction purposes.

Of the total, $29,000,000 worth was given to schools, colleges and universities. The remainder went to service educational activities, including Boy and Girl Scout organizations and the Civil Air Patrol.

Air Defense JAG

Col. Lewis F. Shull, former Chairman of the Army Board of Review in Washington, D. C., has been appointed to the newly-created position of Staff Judge Advocate at Army Air Defense Headquarters, Colorado Springs, Colo.

He will coordinate all questions of law and administration of military justice throughout the command.

EIRE JOURNALISTS have taken a liking to this "remarkable young man" who on the subject of missiles is "bright as a new dollar and as informative as an encyclopaedia." He is 2d Lt. Jerry Williams, USA, now studying physics and higher mathematics under a Rotary scholarship at University College, Dublin, Ireland. An ROTC graduate of Texas Christian University formerly stationed at Ft. Worth, Tex., he was dubbed by a Dublin paper as a man who "groups guided missiles lovingly into families." Describing the family relations among missiles, or "dragons" as the paper calls them, the paper states: "Nike Ajax is a little dear, effective at about 25 miles, not very fast, the poor child, but useful in defending bases."

SAC Officers Graduate B-52 Bomb-Nav Course

A class of 14 SAC navigators has graduated from a six week program at Mather AFB, Calif., which instructed in the theory and operation of the ground-training version of the ASB-4 bombing-navigation system installed in B-52 aircraft.

Graduates were: Flight A—Majors John M. Menczowski, Coy A. Sims, and Raymond L. Walsh; Captains Homer E. Beaver and Carl M. Kennedy, and First Lieutenant Willie E. Elmore, jr.

Flight B—Majors Paul Krause and Oscar L. Senft; Captains Allan S. Lien, William E. Patton, jr., George S. Scott, and William P. Taylor; First Lieutenants Donald A. Joyner and James H. Luttrell.

Major Senft earned the highest grade in the class.

Fourteen student officers in the Primary-Basic Observer Upgrading course have completed more than eight months of training in navigation and electronics at Mather. Some of the students of the class, 58-B-OU, are World War II bombardiers and navigators whose skills needed to be brought up to date in order to be applicable to current equipment.

Graduates included: Majors Laurence L. Malone, James A. Nelson, and Raymond W. Pittman; Captains James J. Carpenter, Earl Hill, jr., Herbert A. Horel, Robert L. Hurlbert, and Edward M. Vander Velde, George Beckingham, Cecil C. Choate, Dale M. Seymour, and Robert E. Wildermuth; First Lieutenants William D. Lower and Allen Matter.

Highest flying grade was made by Captain Seymour while Major Malone made the highest academic grade.

Remaining at Mather for further training in advanced navigation, reconnaissance, and bombardment training are: Majors Malone, Nelson and Pittman; Captains Beckingham, Choate, Seymour and Wildermuth, and First Lieutenant Matter.

Personnel Chief At Mather

Lt. Col. Robert L. Collie has been assigned as personnel officer for the 3535th Navigator Training Wing at Mather AFB, Calif. He succeeds Lt. Col. Charles Himes, jr., USAF-Ret.

Top AF Gens. Shift; Four Win New Stars

Lt. Gen. Frederic H. Smith, Commander, Fifth Air Force, PacAF, becomes Commander, Air Training Command.

Lt. Gen. Dean C. Strother, Commander, Air University, succeeds General Tunner while Lt. Gen. Walter E. Tood, Chief of Staff, United Nations Command, relieves General Strother.

The two star officers shown below will take the listed duties with three-star rank:

Maj. Gen. Robert W. Burns, Commander, Air Proving Ground Center, ARDC, succeeds General Smith.

Maj. Gen. Roscoe C. Wilson, AF Member, Weapons Systems Evaluation Group, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Development, becomes Deputy Chief of Staff, Development, USAF.

Maj. Gen. Roy H. Lynn, Vice Commander, Air Defense Command, remains in the same position.

Maj. Gen. Robert M. Lee, Commander, Ninth Air Force, shifts to duty as Chief of Staff, United Nations Command, Korea.

Dates for the high-command shuffle have not yet been announced.

Col. McKerley Heads Missile Test Base

Col. James A. McKerley has been named Base Commander at the Holloman AFB, N. M., Missile Development Center.

He had been Commander of the Personnel and Training Research Center at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Progress In Manpower Management. The proposed new pay system for the Armed Services, which has been approved by the Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee, may not meet with the approval of all categories of personnel involved, but it does represent a series of conscientiously sought compromises between the views of the Cordiner Committee, the Department of Defense, and the various groups who testified at the most comprehensive series of hearings conducted by the group.

For example, officers already retired will not be happy that the new rates do not apply to them in their entirety and that they will benefit only by a six per cent cost of living increment. The exception will be that three- and four-star general and flag officers now on the retired list will be allowed to recompute their pay on the basis of the new rates, provided they actually served on active duty in those grades. Likewise the brigadier generals, colonels, and lieutenant colonels, and those of parallel ranks in the Navy, will get increases, but not as much as originally recommended.

On the other hand, there is much to be happy about in the measure as it is reported to the full committee. For example, the increases would become effective at once instead of the gradual steps over a four year period as sought by the Bureau of the Budget. This is wise, for if it should be decided that the higher pay is necessary and justified, the only reason for not putting it into effect at once would be to save money at the expense of service personnel.

The modified longevity system incorporated by the subcommittee will be interpreted by the members of the Cordiner Committee as a breach in the system they recommended. Nevertheless, Chairman Kilday and his associates make a good case for the wisdom of their revision.

With the Stennis Subcommittee in the Senate well on its way and with every indication that the House will act promptly on the measure, it would appear that the Services are close to having an entirely new system of pay with substantial increases and incentives all along the line.

Whatever the changes made by the Senate and whatever the compromises reached in the conference between the two Houses of Congress, it is reasonably assured that the military services will soon be operating on a personnel management system vastly different from anything previously in force in the history of this country.

Up Vanguard! The highly successful launching of the Vanguard missile, pitching its test satellite into orbit in the farthest reaches of space, has been a real morale builder for the American people and the peoples of the free world. Its spectacular success has vindicated the faith put in this sophisticated vehicle by the personnel of both the Naval Research Laboratory, which carried out the project, and The Martin Company, which was the prime contractor for the missile.

Though their nerves were frazzled by the strain of repeated failures of components, causing the cancellation of a number of count-downs just as they approached blast off, and the destruction of other test vehicles, they never wavered in their belief of the fundamental rightness of their project.

The fact is that the attempts that failed, while disappointing to the participants and the public, all contributed to the store of knowledge so vital not only to the future of this missile but to all the military and non-military missiles that follow.

"The Army and Navy Journal is established in the interest of no party; it will be controlled by no clique. Its independence will be absolute. Avoiding all personal and political bias, its influence will be directed solely to the inculcation of sound military ideas, and to the elevation of the public service in all its departments."—From Vol. 1, No. 1, Army and Navy Journal, August 29, 1863.

SATURDAY, 22 MARCH 1958

In machinery so advanced in design and so intricate and complicated in assembly and operation, every failure unlocks the way to future successes. In military missiles, for example, each component is operated under test conditions many times before complete assembly and then the complete missile itself undergoes repeated operation in test stands before launching is attempted, and even then many failures occur before success comes.

The Vanguard, for example, is believed to be the first liquid fueled missile designed without conventional stabilizing fins—a feature now being incorporated in most of the newer military missiles. This saves weight and reduces the power needed. Likewise Vanguard's airframe is thinner and lighter than earlier missiles, further lowering the amount of power needed to get it into the air and on its way to orbit. Thus the Vanguard gets off with only 27,000 pounds of thrust as compared with the 80,000 pounds employed by the Army's older Jupiter C which put the Explorer into orbit. Expansion of these principles, it is seen, will permit the launching of considerably bigger satellites within the power limits now available.

A feature of Vanguard not shared by other satellites now in orbit is its solar-powered radio. This feature, developed by the Army Signal Engineer Laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, means that its second radio operates on power generated by the rays of the sun so that it will continue to send out signals until eroded by meteorites or cosmic dust. Thus, this missile which promises to stay aloft longer than any thus far launched also will most likely be continued to be heard on earth after all the others are silent.

The elation from fact that we now have both the Explorer and Vanguard aloft must, however, not lead the Administration, Congress, or the American people to complacency. Both are smaller than either of the two launched last year by the Russians. Rather these accomplishments should point the way to what we can achieve by continued research and development.

QUOTES FROM THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago (21 March 1948)—Relief of Service personnel from the requirement of relating part of their salaries in the form of income taxes became increasingly important with the announcement by Secretary of Defense Forrestal that he sees little chance of a pay revision at this session of Congress. Enlisted personnel on active duty are now completely exempt from the tax and officers are granted a 15% military exemption, but these concessions expire at the end of this year, so that with no increase in base pay the Armed Services will really suffer a pay reduction next January.

50 Years Ago (21 March 1908)—An increase of pay for the enlisted men of the Army is, we repeat, praiseworthy in the highest degree, and will be approved by every fair-minded citizen. On the other hand, the vote that increase and yet refuse to grant an increase in the pay of officers would be a most discouraging discrimination.

90 Years Ago (21 March 1868)—In what corner of his brain Mr. Seward was able to find this idea of building a bridge across the Atlantic, it is difficult to conceive. The conception, at least, has the merit of originality.

Ike Not Coach In '22?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

In reference to the picture appearing on the first page of THE JOURNAL of 15 March, I would call your attention to the fact that in 1922 at Ft. Benning, the then Capt. F. W. (Shrimp) Milburn, USA, was head coach of the Benning football team, as well as a player himself. I was there and was a member of the squad and the then Maj. Dwight D. Eisenhower was not a coach at that time. Nor do I recognize the other men in the picture.

This is negative information, I am sorry to say, but I feel sure the date as stated in THE JOURNAL is incorrect.

The then Captain Milburn is now a retired lieutenant general and is associated with the University of Montana at Mazoula, to the best of my knowledge.

COLONEL, USA-RET.

How Come?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Many fine letters have appeared on this page which accurately describe the inequity and injustice to the officers appointed in the Regular Army after 1 Jan 48 thru Competitive Tours. The Army has not adjusted the permanent dates of rank of officers in this group, of which I am a member, to give credit for all active commissioned service between 6 Dec 41 and 1 Jan 48. However, officers appointed under the present Augmentation Act, just as those appointed prior to 1 Jan 48, received credit for such service.

By contrast, the U. S. Air Force did adjust the permanent ranks of our contemporaries in that Service before applying the Augmentation Act. How come?

One explanation distributed to many officers reads as follows: "... Of necessity, any upward movement for one officer would require a downward movement of another, as adjustment of rank can only be at the expense of someone else. For this reason it is considered more desirable to retain the stability of rank alignment over the years. Further, both the application for appointment and acceptance of an appointment are entirely voluntary on the individual officer's part."

An interpretation of the last sentence would seem to be: "Gentlemen it is just unfortunate; no one to blame but yourselves." However, the first sentence describes perfectly what is happening to the group of about 2,000 Competitive Tour officers: a downward movement, relatively speaking, on the permanent list. This is caused by simply granting permanent rank to appointees under the Augmentation Act based on credit given them for previous service, but denied us. We are the "sour grapes," but merely seeking credit for service which we too have earned.

It is our sincere hope that the gross inequity will be rectified. Not, then again the question: "How come?"

Wives Grow Old; Lts. Soar In "Space Age"

Air Force Chief of Staff, General Thomas D. White, has posed some "space age" problems which will have a serious impact upon future military careers and the domestic well-being of service families.

Speaking before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and the American Rocket Society in Dallas, on 17 March, the General observed that the Theory of Relativity offers "startling" possibilities.

Using the calculations based on Einstein's Theory, he said it has been computed that if a man could travel near the speed of light for several hours away from the earth and back, the earth would be several years older—although his watch would show he had been gone a matter of hours.

"Imagine taking off on a flight into outer space and returning to find one of your young lieutenants is now the commanding general," he postulated.

"Even worse," the General jocularly remarked, "on your return home your wife would be several years older than she was hours before."

AF Officers Get New "Mess Dress"

The Air Force has authorized a new "mess dress" uniform, similar to the Marine dress uniform, for all officers and warrant officers.

Strictly optional at the present time, it will replace the semi-formal evening dress currently authorized. It will not become mandatory until "some undetermined future date."

The mess jacket white for summer wear and black for winter will be of a dacron material with grosgrain collar and lapels similar to those of civilian dinner jackets. Special shoulder boards will be embroidered with insignia of rank.

Trousers will be made of the same dacron material as the winter mess jacket. Authorized headgear will be the visor-type dress cap with interchangeable black and white colors and aluminum-thread braid.

The uniform will also include the standard civilian soft-bosom dress shirt with turned down collar, square-end bow-tie, and black cummerbund.

CONAC Slates Conversion From C-46 To C-119

Air Force Reserve Troop Carrier wings will complete conversion from C-46 Curtiss Commandos to C-119 Fairchild "Flying Boxcars" by early Fall.

Eight of CONAC's 15 Air Reserve Troop Carrier wings have completed conversion.

CONAC currently has 681 Reserve aircraft—591 of them troop carrier transports. Of these 473 are C-119's and 118 C-46's.

Meet at USAF Academy

The Air Force Academy, for the third straight year, will be host for the Rocky Mountain AAU Gymnastics Championships, 28-29 March. Meet site is the Cadet Gym.

Defending team champions, both of whom have won the titles the past two years, are Colorado State College in the senior men's division and East Denver in the high school bracket.

The annual meeting of the Colorado Association of Gymnastics Coaches and Officials will be held 29 March, during the AAU meet.

Col. McDermott Nominated

The President has nominated Col. Robert F. McDermott, USAF, for appointment as a permanent professor of the U. S. Air Force Academy. Colonel McDermott is serving in the post under a recess appointment.

A "Shoot To The Moon" Is Discussed By Lt. Gen. Putt; Sees Many Military Implications Of Such A Feat In Space

(There's been talk of late about a rocket shot to the moon. Possibly the most authoritative discussions of the military implications of such an achievement is presented in newly released Congressional testimony of Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, Air Force Deputy Chief of Staff for Development. THE JOURNAL publishes herewith General Putt's remarks on the implications of space flight, with emphasis on the moon as a possible stellar outpost.)

FROM a scientific standpoint, a manned outpost on the moon has apparent advantages. The absence of atmosphere should make it ideal for astronomical observation purposes. Earth weather tracking and communications relay stations are readily apparent possibilities.

For military purposes, the advantages are not quite so apparent, and there is divided opinion as to the real significance of a military moon base.

But before any such speculations can be profitable, it is worthwhile to consider certain characteristics of the moon as they affect its use as a military base. The moon is roughly 239,000 miles from earth. Its gravity is believed to be about one-sixth that of the earth. The moon is devoid of atmosphere and rotates so that one-half of the lunar surface always faces earth. It is about one-quarter the diameter of the earth, and until proved otherwise, presumably is composed of similar elements.

Lt. Gen. Putt

Moon Is "High Ground"

Let me quickly analyze a military situation on the basis of these five facts alone. First, from an energy standpoint—less energy is required to shoot a warhead from the moon to earth than is required to shoot a warhead to the moon. Since there is no atmosphere, warheads could be catapulted from shafts sunk deep into the moon's surface and sufficient velocity might be imparted to reach moon escape velocity. So, from an energy viewpoint, the moon could represent the centuries old military adage of "high ground."

Next, consider that the missile launched earthward could be observed and guided from start to impact. The reverse is not true; rotation of the earth necessitates multiple tracking and guiding stations.

A missile attack launched from the earth against the moon should be detected shortly after launch, and many hours would be available for counteraction. If a nuclear detonation did occur near or on the lunar surface, there would be no blast effect since there is no atmosphere. Protection against thermal, X-ray, and neutron radiation would not be an impossible problem with many hours warning to predict impact location and go underground.

Lunar outposts and even launch sites could be located on the far side of the moon—never to be seen from earth—yet earth locations could be viewed from the moon by telescopes with moderate size lenses.

Artificial Environment

When man and his intelligence are once established upon the moon, the possibilities of construction and creation of an artificial environment are virtually unlimited. Oxygen, in ample quantities, probably could be extracted from oxides of the moon. Water might be produced from ore in like manner. Energy would abound from both solar sources and radioactive minerals.

Lastly, the moon might provide a retaliation base of consideration advantage over earth-bound nations. If we had bases on the moon, an enemy would have to launch an overwhelming nuclear attack against those bases 1 to 2 days prior to attacking the continental United States. If the continental United States were attacked first, the aggressor would receive sure and massive destruction from the moon shortly thereafter.

MEDICAL OFFICERS IN SPACE COURSE

Forty-eight senior Air Force medical officers completed 21 March an advanced two-week course on "Medical Aspects of Modern Warfare" at the Air University's Air Command and Staff College, Maxwell AFB, Ala., and School of Aviation Medicine, Gunter AFB, Ala.

The course featured lectures by some of the nation's top space-age scientists and medical experts.

The first week of instruction was an air warfare system orientation course, designed to familiarize the medical officers with the general characteristics of Air Force weapons, manned aircraft and missile delivery systems, and their capabilities and limitations.

The second phase was concerned with medical problems created by the use of the new space-age weapons, according to the Gunter Branch, School of Aviation Medicine.

The panel of guest lecturers included Col. John Pickering, Chief, Department of Radiobiology, School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph AFB, Tex.; LCDR. John Ebersole, USN, Surgeon, USS Sea Wolf; Col. Joseph R. Shaeffer, Consultant on Medical Care in Disaster, Walter Reed Army Institute of Research; Dr. Payne S. Harris, Biomedical Research Group, Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

Maj. James Dick, USAF, Nuclear Engineering Officer, Kirtland Air Force Base, N. M.; Maj. David Simons, USAF, Aero Medical Field Laboratory, Air Force Missile Development Center, Holloman Air Force Base, N. M.; Dr. Robert J. Goodlow, Ph.D., director, Biological Research, Biological Warfare Laboratory, Ft. Detrick, Md.; Col. David F. Harbour, USAF, Director of Plans, Headquarters, USAF, Washington, D. C.; Brig. Gen. Victor A. Byrnes, USAF, Director of Professional Services, Office of the Surgeon General, Headquarters USAF, Washington, D. C.; and Col. Geoffrey P. Wiedeman, USAF, Deputy Director, Plans and Hospitalization, Office of Surgeon General, Headquarters USAF, Washington, D. C.

Moon Is First Step

We should not regard control of the moon as the ultimate means of insuring peace among the earth nations. It is only a first step toward stations on planets far more distant—in turn, from which control over the moon might then be exercised. Nevertheless, the moon appears to be of such significance that we should not let another nation establish a military capability there ahead of us.

AF Creates Office For Army Jupiter

The Air Force has established a Weapons System Project Office for the Army's Jupiter missile, under the direction of Maj. Gen. Ben I. Funk, USAF, Commander of the Air Materiel Command Ballistic Missile Office.

Located at Inglewood, Calif., with the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, the Office will monitor Air Force responsibilities for cooperation with the Army on the Jupiter program.

A small "AF Jupiter Liaison Office" has also been established at the Army Ballistic Missile Agency, Huntsville, Ala.

MISSILE CHIEF PROMOTED. Happiness was the pass-word at the recent promotion ceremony in Inglewood, Calif., when Brig. Gen. Ben I. Funk, Chief of the Ballistic Missiles Office for AMC, was advanced to the temporary grade of Major General. Looking over the stars are, Miss Judith L. Funk, daughter, (left) and Mrs. Funk, right.

CONGRESSIONAL CRITICISM of Administration money-jugglers has boiled over into legislative proposals to prevent Federal officials from tampering with funds appropriated by the Congress. Representative Dan Flood (R-Pa.) of the House Appropriations Committee has introduced a bill to abolish the Bureau of the Budget. Representative F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) has introduced a bill to prevent any Government officer, agent or employee from withholding or impounding monies appropriated by the Congress. At present, Congressman Hebert charges, non-elected officials in the Executive Department "are free to, and do, in fact, frustrate the will of Congress" by deciding if and when appropriations shall be used.

PENTAGON WITNESSES appearing before the House and Senate Armed Services Committees have testified that the biggest roadblocks they encounter in carrying out their duties are the restrictions and limitations placed on appropriated funds by the Bureau of the Budget and the Defense Department Comptroller. Chairman Vinson of the House Committee has called for a reorganization of the Pentagon which would sharply restrict the authority of the Comptroller.

THE COVETED ARMY COMBAT INFANTRYMAN BADGE gets summary treatment in a new Air Force advisory to the field. Air Force people are being told anew that the wearing of overseas bars and items such as the combat infantryman and medical badges is "discouraged." Aim is to keep the Air Force uniform "plain and distinctive."

AN EMERGENCY SET OF STARS was presented to Maj. Gen. Henry R. Spicer, Commander, FlyTAF, Randolph AFB, by quick acting officials of Southern Airway's contract base at Bainbridge, Ga., on 13 March. The General, who was graduation speaker at Project Palm the following day, arrived sans stars for his dress uniform. While the graduation dance was in progress, the maintenance shop went to work. An hour and 48 minutes after the "starless" General's arrival, he was pinned at a surprise ceremony by Lt. Col. Elmer E. Masters, Bainbridge Commander. The stainless steel set of stars was manufactured by tuxedo-dressed Johnny Cloud, Southern Airways Superintendent of Shops.

SAC AUTO HOBBY SHOP enthusiasts have a crack at an appropriate prize. A 1958 Lincoln motor will be awarded to the SAC man who writes the best essay-up to 500 words-on "What The Auto Hobby Shop Does For Me." Deadline is 15 April at SAC Headquarters, Offutt AFB, Nebr.

CNO BURKE'S TESTIMONY to the Kilday Subcommittee included a forecast of a possible 13,000 reduction over four years in Navy strength if retention rates could be increased substantially. The Admiral told the Stennis Subcommittee in the Senate that manpower savings are seen probable if proper pay incentives are provided, but he omitted the 13,000 reference.

SOME SAC BASES will be forced to reduce fire truck strength below the minimum established by Air Force regulations. A shortage of firefighting equipment is forcing SAC to redistribute equipment throughout the command.

LIQUOR LOCKER CLUBS have drawn a sharp warning from USAF Headquarters. It's noted that representatives of some distillers are encouraging officers and airmen to form "locker clubs," totaling their requirement in a single order that is delivered to the base. Headquarters labels this "an obvious subterfuge to circumvent the spirit and intent of the Air Force policy and must not be condoned."

THE NAVY HAS DEPRIVED its chaplains of off-duty educational benefits (Page 3) available to those in the Army and Air Force. Unlike their counterparts in the other Services, Navy Chaplains cannot receive tuition aid for religion or theology studies, even when these are directly related to their duty assignments. Navy chaplains assigned to the Marine Corps are treated differently; under Marine regulations the Corps can subsidize their tuition for taking theology courses.

ARMY RECRUITERS expect hundreds of young men to take advantage of a new opportunity to select the metropolitan area of their choice for training in missiles and electronics. It's a hometown deal for recruiters in 23 metropolitan areas guarded by Nike units.

THE ARMY HAS A THOR FIRING. He's a member of the Signal Section of the Advisory Group in Korea—Maj. Thor Firing.

A NEW KIND OF ARCHWAY is being used in greeting ceremonies for VIP's at the Army's Ft. Sill, Okla., Artillery and Missile Center. Getting off a plane, a prominent visitor is likely to walk beneath an archway formed by two guided missiles.

A HASH MARK WAR threatens at the Pentagon. The Air Force has decided to abandon hash marks in favor of a longevity ribbon. A new AF order will hit the field this Spring. The other Services are sticking by their guns, will retain the historic hash mark.

MARINE COMMANDANT PATE declares that a ribbon that is given merely for length of service "would tend to lessen the value of those currently issued."

THE AF LONGEVITY RIBBON goes to officers and enlisted personnel upon completion of four years consecutive service, with bronze clusters to be awarded, including retroactively, for each additional four year period. The ribbon consists of two turquoise vertical stripes on a blue background.

VERSATILITY OF ARMY CHAPLAINS is demonstrated by Chaplain (Lt.Col.) Joseph T. Kasel, USA, of the Personnel Services Division, Deputy CofS for Personnel. Reportedly the first Chaplain ever assigned to the Army General Staff, he is responsible for family housing problems.

A PORTRAIT OF A LADY now hangs side by side with those of the Secretary of Defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force in the House Armed Services Committee room. When Chairman Carl Vinson learned that Committeewoman Katherine St. George had braved the wild blue yonder in an F-104-B Starfire, he directed that two pictures of Mrs. St. George, attired in flying clothing and helmet, be hung on the wall traditionally reserved for top Pentagon brass.

"Strong Arm" Tests Fuel Logistics

Exercise Strong Arm, under the direction of Lt. Gen. J. H. Collier, Fourth Army Commander, has established headquarters at Ft. Hood, Tex.

The logistic operation, involving about 7,000 troops, will take place in Louisiana 1-14 May. It will include troop tests of bulk petroleum supply, assault bridging, logistical support of armor by Air Force and Army aircraft, and airborne and airlanded infantry in support of armor.

Simulated atomic weapons will be included in the play where feasible. The test is designed to assist in solving the combat refueling problem, one of the most difficult supply areas foreseen in future ground operations.

All elements of Combat Command A, Ft. Polk, La., will take part in active field operations. Other units already scheduled to participate are:

648th Quartermaster Company, Ft. Polk; 596th Quartermaster Company, Ft. Lee, Va.; 109th Quartermaster Company, Ft. Lee; 594th Quartermaster Company, Ft. Lee; 697th Engineer Company, Ft. Polk.

First '58 NATO Naval Exercise Scheduled

The first NATO naval exercise scheduled for the Allied Command Atlantic in 1958 will be held 25 to 29 March in the Eastern Atlantic area, under the direction of the Joint Commanders in Chief Eastern Atlantic Area, Admiral Sir William Davis, Royal Navy, and Air Marshal Sir Bryan Reynolds, Royal Air Force.

Called DAWN BREEZE III, the exercise is designed to provide training for the participating nations in coordinated air and sea anti-submarine and anti-raider operations.

Four NATO member nations—Denmark, France, Portugal and the United Kingdom—will provide naval and air forces for the exercise which will be under the over-all command of Admiral Jerauld Wright, USN, NATO's Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic.

Navy Moves Five LST's To Pacific Phib Force

The Navy has transferred five LST's from the Atlantic to the Pacific Fleet.

The landing ship tanks, of the new LST-1156 class, have been assigned to the Pacific Fleet Amphibious Force, led by VADM. Carl F. Espe. The modern "T's" are faster and have more armament than WWII types.

Fifteen ships of this class are in operation.

Reporting to berths in San Diego, the ships and commanders are: Vernon County (LST-1161), LCDR. C. J. Hemmingsen, Washoe County (LST-1165), LCDR. L. C. Moreland; Washtenaw County (LST-1166), LCDR. A. C. Lassiter; Westchester County (LST-1167), LCDR. F. A. Staub; and Windham County (LST-1170), LCDR. R. A. Mowrer.

SENATE OK'S CAPEHART HOUSING CHANGES

The Senate has passed and sent to the House new housing legislation which provides an additional $25 million to be used by the Federal National Mortgage Association to purchase Capehart mortgages.

At an average of $16,500 per unit, the added funds will provide financing for 1515 Capehart homes for the Armed Forces.

The measure (S-3418) also authorizes an increase, at the discretion of the Federal Housing Administrator, in the interest rate on Capehart mortgages from the present four per cent to 4½ per cent. The Defense Department has testified that such authority will greatly aid the Services in finding private builders for project Capehart projects.

Senator John Sparkman (D-Ala.), sponsor of the bill, said the FHA should consider the 4½ per cent rate "a ceiling," and the rate "established for these mortgages should be the lowest possible rate below that ceiling necessary in order to attract private funds."

LCdr. Nott Commands First True Missile Sub

The USS Grayback (SSG-574), the first submarine built from the keel up specifically for guided missile work, was commissioned on 7 March at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Calif.

In the past submarines have been converted with deck-top hangers to fire Regulus I. The Grayback is the first sub built to fire Regulus II.

LCdr. Hugh G. Nott has been named her commander. He last commanded the USS Stickleback.

One of the Navy's largest subs, the Grayback is 320 feet long and displaces 3,600 tons. She carries a crew of 85 officers and men. Her built-in missile capability will enable her to strike more than 1,000 miles inland with nuclear warheads.

Twin cylinder-shaped hangers, faired into the forward part of the hull, carry the missiles.

The first firings of Regulus II from the new sub are scheduled this Fall and will simulate attacks on inland enemy targets.

AF Selects 307 For Temporary Colonel With DOR'S From '44 To 15 April '53

THE Air Force will promote 307 lieutenant colonels to temporary colonel during March and April—266 of them line officers with dates of rank from 21 July 1944 to 15 April 1953.

The Air Force also designated 24 MC lieutenant colonels; two DC officers, Harold J. Malan and Norman E. Ruediger, three Chaplains, Alphonse B. Slivinski, Silas A. Meckel, and Albert C. Schiff, Jr.; two Nurses, Idea E. Peschon and Rosemary Hogan; eight Medical Service; and two Veterinary officers, Joseph H. Berger and Charles H. Snider for colonel rank.

The schedule of promotions for line officers shows that by the end of March, advancements will have been made through No. 169, David L. Evans, III, whose present rank dates from 1 August 1951.

By 15 April, promotions will have extended to No. 221, Gerald M. McNulty, whose current grade DOR is 1 December 1951.

The last name on the list is that of Russell G. Ogan, whose date of rank is 15 April 1953. He is with the Air Defense Command, as are the two names immediately preceding his on the list, William H. Butterfield (264) and William F. Shaeffer (265), who also hold present rank from 15 April 1953.

Lieutenant colonels through Number 124 were given dates of rank as colonels from 3 February through 14 March 1958.

The Air Force said officers will be permitted to assume the higher grade on the date their promotion is scheduled to become effective, but there was a reminder that increased pay and allowances depend upon the Special Order effecting the promotion being submitted to the Finance Officer.

Here are the list of line officer selections in alphabetical order, with seniority standing indicated:

Lt. Gen. Myers Hails Graduation Of 17 From Primary Jet School A "Milestone"

BAINBRIDGE AB, GA.

Lt. Gen. Charles T. Myers, Commander, Air Training Command hails the graduation of 17 "Project Palm" primary students as a "milestone in pilot training."

Speaking at the graduation exercises, here on 14 March, the General told the class that it represents "our modern and fast-changing Air Force—an Air Force that will demand every thing you have to offer in the way of imagination, resourcefulness, determination, and dedication."

Lt. Gen. Myers

The 17 pilots were the first Air Force students in history to graduate from a jet primary training class. They received their jet instruction in the Cessna T-37 jet from Southern Airways civilian instructors, under contract to the Air Force.

Volunteers For Project Palm

Project Palm was comprised of volunteers who agreed to serve in the experiment to determine whether initial training in jets was practical. Prior to this test, students entering primary training received 130 hours in reciprocating engine planes before starting jet flying. Each student in the experimental group flew a total of 150 hours in the jet and 30 in the Beech T-34, a tandem propeller plane.

Lt. Col. Elmer L. Masters, Bainbridge Commander, said the number of flying hours was set at 150 to determine at what point the learning plateau would level off. He said that future classes will receive only 100 hours of flying time in the Cessna jet.

Maj. Angelo J. Boutselis, Project Palm Commander, said that in addition to testing the performance levels of the students, his group was charged "with determining the suitability of the T-37 as a primary trainer."

Instructors who evaluated the jet trainer report that the T-37 came through with no more than the normal problems that always occur with newly designed aircraft. Graduating students, told visiting reporters who attended the ceremony that they are "very pleased with the jet's performance and reliability." The consensus of opinion of reporters who flew in the new trainer was that it was highly maneuverable and smooth-riding.

Lt. Col. Elmer E. Masters (left), Commander, Bainbridge AB, Ga., points out a feature of the Cessna T-37 jet trainer to Maj. Angelo J. Boutselis, Commander of Project Palm. Project Palm, an experimental jet training program, was designed to test feasibility of teaching Air Force student flyers in jet aircraft with a minimum amount of prior instruction in propeller-driven planes.

Major Boutselis said he believed the Air Force eventually will eliminate all propeller-driven planes from the primary schools and put students directly into jets.

Bainbridge officials report that the Project Palm experimental class achieved higher academic and flying grades than previous classes.

Honor graduate was 2d Lt. Dewey W. Waddell who received a Letter of Commendation from Colonel Masters.

The graduates, who have been ordered to Laredo AFB, Tex., for basic jet training, received their certificates of graduation from General Myers and Frank W. Hulse, President of Southern Airways.

AF Issues Warning On Retirement Pay

The Air Force is advising certain Reserve officers of the expiration of a policy 30 June that permits enlistment in the Reserve to qualify for retired pay.

Here is the text of a statement on this subject in a current Air Force publication:

"For some time, Air Force policy has permitted Reserve officers separated for age, who were not eligible for retired pay, to enlist in the Reserve of the Air Force in order to qualify for retired pay under Section 1331, Title 10, U. S. Code. An Ad-Hoc Committee recently recommended that Department of Defense not adopt a policy providing for enlistment in the Reserve components of officers in this category. However, the Air Force was granted a limited period of time during which this policy could be phased out.

"Paragraph 11a(3), AFR 45-47 (and paragraph 6b(3), ANGR 39-9) containing the authority for enlistment in the Reserve of the Air Force of Reserve officers separated by reason of age will expire on 30 June 1958. On 12 February 1958, a message was dispatched to all major commanders instructing them to advise immediately all Reserve officers on active duty of their prerogatives. Those Reserve officers whose only means of qualifying for retired pay is outlined in the message and who are desirous of availing themselves of this method of eligibility must submit applications for release from active duty in accordance with paragraph 26c, AFR 36-22. Normally such applications will be approved. Enlistment should be accomplished on the day following effective date of release from active duty and must be effected no later than 30 June 1958.

Hospital 6 March. Burial was at the Presidio National Cemetery.

Born at Ft. Warren, Wyo., then Ft. D. A. Russell, where his father, the late Gen. Daniel H. Brush, was serving, General Brush was an alumnus of Phillips Exeter Academy and the University of Illinois. Commissioned a lieutenant in the Army in 1911, he was a Distinguished Graduate of the Command and General Staff School in 1923, and of the Army War College in 1926, and was a veteran of the Moro, the Mexican Border campaigns and both World Wars. During WWII, General Brush commanded the 40th Division from the start of its campaign in the southwest Pacific, at Guadalcanal, through New Guinea, Negros, Panay and the liberation invasion of Luzon. At the latter he was the senior division commander in the landing at Lingayan Gulf. Retired from active duty in December 1945 from a disability contracted in the southwest Pacific, General Brush had since lived at Menlo Park, Calif.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alice Hall Brush of 248 Encinal Ave., Menlo Park; one son, Mr. Rapp Brush, Jr., a WWII captain in the Air Force, of Ross, Calif.; three grandsons, Rapp Brush, 3d, Bayne Brush and Breckinridge Brush, and one brother, Mr. Daniel H. Brush, Jr. of Chicago.

Col. Francis Moylan Fitts, MC, USA-Ret.

Funeral services for Col. Francis Moylan Fitts, MC, USA-Ret., who died at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, D. C., 17 March, were to be held at the Ft. Myer, Va., Chapel at 11:00 a.m., Friday, 21 March, with burial at Arlington National Cemetery.

A native of Blacksburg, Va., Colonel Fitts received his education at Hampton-Sidney College, the Medical College of Virginia, the Roosevelt Hospital, New York City, and at several Army medical and technical colleges. He was commissioned in the Medical Corps of the Regular Army in 1919 and his career spanned many important assignments, in which he served with distinction. Some of these were as a member of the Typhus Mission to Poland, that of Director of the Medical Training Army Service Force and Chief Surgeon of the Second Army.

Outstanding characteristics contributing to his success as a doctor and as a soldier were Colonel Fitts' knowledge of human nature and his understanding of the means and methods of training medical personnel, individually and collectively. For his service as Director of the Medical Training Army Service Force, he received the Legion of Merit, which said in part "... Colonel Fitts unflinchingly displayed unusual professional skill, high qualities of leadership and untiring devotion to duty." Retiring from active duty in 1952, he returned to serve on a voluntary basis for two years as a member of the Army's Physical Evaluation Board, and for the past two years had served with the Blood Bank of the American Red Cross.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jeanne Marie Fitts of 2010 Que Street, N.W., Washington.

COL. JOHN T. HONEYCUTT has been named Chief of Staff of the Army Advisory Group, Korea. He replaces Brig. Gen. Charles J. Timmes, assigned to the Army Council of Review Board, Washington, D. C.

GEN. KUTER EYES SOVIET STRENGTH

The Soviet Air Force in the Far East is an "impressive" jet age force with 200 primary fields available to it in that area plus 300 more fields with limited capabilities.

This is the estimate of General Laurence S. Kuter, Commander in Chief of the U. S. Pacific Air Forces. He told newsmen in Honolulu that he did not think either side would win future wars on the first attack. The side that is able to go after the third wave of attack, he said, would be the victor in any all-out nuclear war.

Senator Urges Rental Allowance Boost; Minimum Is $60, Maximum Set At $218.90

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) has proposed substantial increases in rental allowances for all members of the Armed Forces.

For officers, the newly proposed rates would range from $87.55 for an O-1 with no dependents to $218.90 for an O-9 with dependents. This contrasts with the present low of $68.40 for second lieutenants and warrant officers (W-1) without dependents and the present high of $171 for general and flag officers with dependents.

For enlisted men the high would be $131.20, compared with the present high of $96.90, and the low would be $60, contrasted with the present $51.30.

Testifying before the Stennis Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Military Pay, Senator Goldwater offered the increased quarters allowance proposal as a substitute for the cost of living feature contained in the Pentagon pay bill. This has been eliminated by the Kilday Subcommittee in the House.

Senator Goldwater said, "An increase in quarters allowances would do more to satisfy a desperate need for all members of our Armed Forces than would the six per cent cost-of-living increase."

He told the committee that any cost-of-living discussion "must include the cost of housing for it is a major item in the family budget."

He noted that the Cordiner committee "found that quarters allowances are below what personnel must pay for off-base rentals" and that the number of on-base quarters are inadequate.

Senator Goldwater said military families have received quarters allowance increases of only 14 per cent since 1942 despite the fact that the nation-wide price index for rent has increased 42 per cent during the 16-year period.

Here are the new rates proposed by the Senator:

| Rank | With Dependents | Without Dependents |
|-----------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| General | $218.90 | $175.10 |
| Colonel | 175.10 | 153.20 |
| Lt. Col. | 175.10 | 131.30 |
| Major/W-4 ... | 153.20 | 120.60 |
| Captain/W-3 .. | 131.30 | 109.45 |
| 1st Lt./W-2 ... | 120.60 | 98.70 |
| 2d Lt./W-1 | 109.45 | 87.55 |
| E-9 | 131.20 | 109.45 |
| E-8 | 125.00 | 103.00 |
| E-7 | 115.00 | 92.00 |
| E-6 | 108.00 | 85.00 |
| E-5 | 103.00 | 80.00 |

HOUSE APPROVES SHIP DISPOSAL

The House has passed and sent to the Senate legislation authorizing the Navy to dispose of seven uncompleted warships.

The vessels are the battleship Kentucky, the heavy cruiser Hawaii, destroyers Lansdale and Seymour D. Owens and the submarines Lancetfish, Unicorn and Walrus.

The Navy has spent approximately $129 million on the seven ships and it is estimated that they can be sold for scrap for a little over $3 million.

He said it is "regrettable" that the vessels could not be completed, but economy dictates that the ships be disposed of. He said their disposal will save an annual maintenance bill of $136,000.

PAY UP $662 MILLION

The Kilday pay plan will add $662 million to military pay checks.

Revised pay scales worked out by the Armed Services subcommittee provide increases averaging 12.9 per cent for officers and nine per cent for enlisted men. The Pentagon plan had averaged out about 11.4 per cent for officers and 3.2 per cent for enlisted members.

An enlisted man assigned to the top new pay grade, E-9, could earn almost $10,000 a year under the new plan. If he has at least 22 years' service, more than two dependents, receives hazardous duty pay and is selected for proficiency pay because of technical skills, he could receive $460 base pay, $150 proficiency pay, $96.90 quarters allowance and $105 hazardous pay for a total of $811.90 per month.

SENATE PAY PROGRESS

The Stennis Senate Armed Services Subcommittee on Military Pay completed its open hearings this week, preparatory to further study behind closed doors.

If the House passes the Kilday pay bill, the Stennis committee could reopen hearings to obtain the views of the Pentagon and other witnesses on the House bill, or it could study the House measure in executive session.

In either eventuality, progress thus far indicates that the Stennis group will not be delayed over long in reporting a pay measure to its own parent committee.

Heads Sill Special Services

Maj. Charles W. Hanley, who has been with the Artillery Board for the last year, has been assigned as Fort Sill, Okla., Special Services officer. He succeeds Lt. Col. Carroll H. Hoagland, recently appointed Secretary-Treasurer of the Officers' Open Mess there.

PAY BILL IS "BEST" POSSIBLE

Chairman Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex) had this to say as his subcommittee completed its pay study on 18 March: "The subcommittee has worked for over four weeks on this bill. They have worked seriously and conscientiously. I believe we have reported the best bill which could be devised at the present time, and I feel that we have been just and equitable to all of the Services."

Members of the Kilday committee include Representatives Leon H. Gavin, (Pa), the ranking Republican, L. Mandel Rivers (D-SC), James T. Patterson (R-Conn), F. Edward Hebert (D-La), William H. Bates (R-Mass), Porter Hardy (D-Va), Bob Wilson (R-Calif), George P. Miller (D-Calif), B. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn), Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla), Charles S. Gubser (R-Calif), and George Huddleston, Jr (D-Ala).
